Preparation of the Annual Report

The Penn College Police Department publishes this report in compliance with the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security and Crime Statistics Act. The report is prepared to inform current and prospective Penn College employees, students, parents, and visitors about campus security policies, measures to prevent and respond to crimes and emergencies, and the occurrence of crime on our campuses.

The report provides the statistics for the previous three years of reported crimes that occurred on main campus, Lumley Aviation Center, Schneebeli Earth Science Center, and other properties and buildings owned or leased by the College off-campus.

The report is available each year by October 1 and notification is made to all current students and employees via their PCT email account. Additional notifications about the Web address to find an electronic copy are provided to the Office of People & Culture and the Student Admissions Office to be distributed to prospective students and employees. Anyone may request a paper copy of the report by contacting Penn College Police at 570.321.5555.

The annual crime and fire statistics are collected from both College and community sources. The College sources include College Police, Student Affairs, Off-Campus Living & Commuter Services, College Health Services, Athletics, Office of Student Engagement, Counseling Services, Residence Life, and Disability & Access Resources. The community sources include the Williamsport Bureau of Police, Pennsylvania State Police, Montoursville Borough Police, Lycoming County District Attorney’s Office, and Wise Options for Women

Police Department

The Penn College Police Department bears the primary responsibility for law enforcement and security on campus. The Police Department is located at 1154 W. Third Street, one block west of the Klump Academic Center. The police business number is 570.321.5555. For fire, police, or ambulance emergencies, dial 9-1-1 from any telephone.

Penn College Police officers are commissioned officers and enforce the laws of Pennsylvania, as well as College policies and regulations. The College police are highly trained individuals. They receive the most current training available in law enforcement, medical response, and other related areas. Ongoing in-service training is varied and all-inclusive, with the intent to keep the department’s level of professionalism at its highest and to constantly seek new and better ways to serve the Penn College community.

Penn College Police work closely with local, state, and federal agencies and have direct radio contact with the Williamsport Bureau of Police. The City of Williamsport and the College have a memorandum of understanding establishing the boundaries and guidelines for investigations of crime.

Safety

Pennsylvania College of Technology is committed to providing for the safety and security of students, staff, and visitors to its facilities. Many programs and services have been designed to ensure that a peaceful learning environment is maintained at all times.

There are approximately 4,500 students and 1,100 full- and part-time employees who make up the Penn College campus community. Their common bond is the desire for student success.

Emergency Response and Evacuation

Events that require a campus-wide emergency response will be identified by the College president in consultation with the senior advisers, College Police, and other pertinent officials.

Pennsylvania College of Technology has developed an Emergency Response Plan to provide guidance to College employees in dealing with campus emergency situations and any immediate after-effects. The first priority considered in this Emergency Response Plan is the impact of emergency situations on students and campus safety.

The plan addresses some specific emergency scenarios, but also can be used as a guideline for any type of emergency situation, including those that involve guests and members of the public who might be on campus. The plan is tested annually through drills and exercises.

Posted in every classroom, office, and bulletin board are In Case of Emergency instruction sheets. Emergency response guidelines are provided to all students and employees through the myPCT Portal.

Timely warnings and communication are critical when there is an immediate threat to the health and safety of students, employees, and visitors on campus. The College relies on the PCT Alerts emergency notification system. This system includes multiple types of warning and communication devices, including text alert, voice over phone, computer monitor alert, audible external sirens, fire alarms, public address systems, email, and LCD display screens located throughout campus.

In an emergency, information can change very quickly. During these situations, it is important that everyone heed messages and warnings issued by police, emergency service providers, and the administration.

Security Awareness and Crime Prevention

During orientation, new students are informed of services offered by the Penn College Police. Video and slide presentations outline ways to maintain personal safety and residence hall security. Students are told about crime on campus and in the surrounding neighborhoods.

Periodically during the academic year, the Office of Student Engagement Office along with the Residence Life Office, College Health Services, and the Penn College Police Department present programs on sexual awareness, alcohol awareness, and personal safety. In addition, all new students are required to participate in a sexual assault and alcohol abuse program. The program, Get Inclusive, presents Sexual Assault Prevention for undergraduates, is designed to increase students’ awareness of the potential consequences of substance abuse of alcohol and other drugs, and awareness about sexual assault and dating violence.

Additional programs offered through the year include:

- “Be the Change” Bystander – Training designed to support and empower students to address negative, excluding, and dangerous behaviors on campus and in the community.
- Safe Zone/Ally Training – For any student and employees interested in serving as an advocate for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, and questioning students. This training will help students understand more about the LGBTQA community, how to be an ally and educate students about on-campus resources available to all students.
- Empowering your Sexual Health -Covering topics such as safe sex practices, sexually transmitted infections (STIs), and contraception methods. The primary goals of this initiative are to promote sexual health, increase awareness and understanding of sexual health topics, and encourage safe sex practices.
- Weed and Wings – Discussion between students and law enforcement, drug counselors, social service agencies, and advocates for legalization where students are educated about current laws relating to marijuana use as well as health implications. Participants learn about services, support, and resources available to our Penn College community.

*Penn College Discussion Series: Race and Policing in America– A place to talk about hard things. Join the Office of Student Engagement and Dr. Craig Miller each month as we talk about what’s going on in the world. This event was led by the Mayor of Williamsport, the Assistant Chief of Police in Williamsport and a college professor.

- Campus Wellness and Safety – This is a required session for all new students and it focuses on the physical, mental, and emotional wellness and safety of all students. Students are provided with tips on how to safely and effectively navigate college life and a variety of resources are discussed.

*Penn College Discussion Series: Freedom of Speech, Hate Speech, Censorship, and Misinformation – A conversation on the history and current state of speech in America. We’ll discuss the origins of the first amendment, how the courts have interpreted it over time, and then discuss contemporary issues, particularly how technology and social media have altered debates about free speech in America.

These programs encourage discussion and help raise students’ level of comfort when talking about these issues. Students have the opportunity to explore these issues and obtain factual information in a fun and open manner. Students are also introduced to the community resources available to them.

In addition to the seminars, crime prevention surveys are conducted routinely by the Penn College Police in order to identify crime-conducive conditions. Any facility-related deficiencies are reported to General Services for priority repair.

Emergency telephones, video surveillance cameras, “Crime Alerts,” police escorts, around-the-clock emergency dispatch, and a 24-hour police operation are a few of the crime prevention services available to the College community.

Reporting Missing Students

Students, employees, and family members are encouraged to report missing students immediately so police can take steps necessary to locate the missing student. If you are concerned that a student is missing or has not been seen or spoken to for some time, you can report it to the College Police or Residence Life.

Building Security and Safety

Buildings are secured after normal hours. Routine checks are made to ensure that buildings remain secure. Malfunctioning locks are reported to General Services immediately and they are repaired on a priority basis. Any problems with lighting or other safety measures are repaired as soon as possible.

The custodians are in direct contact with police patrols 24 hours a day so they can report any suspicious activity or emergency.

Call boxes and emergency phones are located throughout the main campus to enable those needing immediate assistance to contact the College Police. Directions for use are printed on each unit.

College Housing

On-campus housing facilities are secured by an exterior fence, card access control, and video surveillance at the main gate. Room assignments and changes are made by the Residence Life Office. Residents must present their student IDs to enter the facilities after 11 p.m. via card access. All housing units are locked by key or card access 24 hours a day. All doors and windows are provided with locks. A professional staff member is assigned to or lives in each facility. Training sessions for the residents are held throughout the year on a variety of safety, security, and residence life issues.

The Resident Assistants patrol these facilities during the evening hours and check each apartment prior to every College closure to ensure that doors and windows are locked. The College Police check the exterior of these facilities as part of their regular patrols to ensure that they remain secure.

Residents are allowed to have visitors, but must follow Residence Life policies. Visitation policies can be found at www.pct.edu/housingpolicies. Guests of the College are occasionally housed in student apartments during the summer when there is minimal student occupancy. An officer is not usually assigned to any College housing facility during the summer and during periods of no student occupancy.

Off-campus Facilities

This police and security information applies to all College facilities, including the Schneebeil Earth Science Center, the Lumley Aviation Center, the Community Arts Center, the River Property Equipment Garage, and the General Services building on Reach Road.

This document and the total reported crime statistics are published for students and employees of all of these facilities.

The Williamsport Bureau of Police responds to reports of crime and emergencies in off-campus housing facilities, adjacent to the main campus. The Penn College Police also have jurisdiction in the 500-yard area adjacent to College property.

The Penn College Police Department monitors and records, on an annual basis, information provided by the Williamsport Bureau of Police about criminal activity in geographical areas of Williamsport that include off-campus student housing and off-campus locations of student organizations. Criminal activity on the part of students while off campus subjects them to discipline under the College’s Student Code of Conduc.

Reporting Crimes

SStudents and employees are encouraged to report criminal acts and suspicious activities immediately so that police can take steps to protect members of the campus community. If you see a crime occur on campus, you can report it to the College Police at the office located on the corner of West Third and Grier Streets, or by dialing 9-1-1, or by dialing 570.321.5555 from any telephone.

In addition, you may use any of the Emergency call boxes located throughout campus.

Alternately, you can report a crime anonymously by filling out our online Silent Witness form. It should be noted, however, that the College may not be able to provide absolute confidentiality due to the need to protect the safety of the person making the report or others who may be at risk. Additionally, local law enforcement officials may be able to obtain information through the legal process. Nevertheless, the College attempts to handle such confidential information with discretion and due regard for the feelings of the person making the report.

While the College encourages everyone to report crimes and other emergencies to College Police we recognize that some may wish to report to other individuals or offices. Other individuals on campus designated by the Clery Act are called Campus Security Authorities (CSA). These individuals are defined as having significant responsibility for student and campus activities, including but not limited to student housing, student conduct board, and athletic coaches. Although there are several individuals that fall under this description, the College identifies these additional offices to which crimes may be reported:

- Counseling Services, Bush Campus Center, Room 204, 570.327.4765
- Residence Life, Dauphin Hall, Room 1039, 570.320.8023
- Student Affairs, Bush Campus Center, Room 122, 570.320.5310

Crime Alerts and Timely Warnings

Upon confirmation of a significant emergency or dangerous situation involving a crime (occurring either on or off campus) that, in the judgment of the Chief of Police, constitutes an ongoing or continuing threat to the health and safety of students or staff, the Penn College Police will issue an immediate notice to students and employees. A timely warning and/or crime alert bulletin will be distributed via any or all of the following ways: text message, email, myPCT portal, telephone, the College website, LCD display, Campus TV, and Penn College News. If a possible threat exists within a specific area of the campus (e.g., residence halls), printed bulletins will also be posted in that vicinity.

All current and previous “Crime Alert” bulletins can be viewed on the Penn College Police website at www.pct.edu/student-life/campus-safety/crime-alerts-and-timely-warnings.

Anyone with information related to a crime alert or timely warning should report the information to the Penn College Police by phone at 570.321.5555 or in person at the office on the corner of West Third and Grier Streets.

Crime Reports and Records

In addition to timely warnings, the Penn College Police Department recognizes its responsibility to publish crime statistics for the most recent three-year period, and to make these statistics available to the College community. The community will be alerted as to when and where this information can be accessed. This report is made available pursuant to Act 73, “College and University Security Act,” Public Law 101-542, Title 11, Crime Awareness and Campus Safety. Students and employees may file complaints regarding the compliance with this Act, in writing, to the Dean of Students.

Reports of crime on College property are investigated by the Penn College Police and charges are filed with the Magisterial District Judge and with the Senior Director of Campus Life & Residential Experience. Assistance from the Williamsport Bureau of Police and the Pennsylvania State Police may be requested in the event that the crime is beyond the investigative capacity of the College Police.

The Penn College Police maintain records of students and non-students who have been charged with criminal offenses. These records are kept in compliance with the Criminal History Information Act. In addition, Penn College Police utilize the records management system hosted by the Williamsport Bureau of Police which maintains records for off-campus criminal incidents.

Police Crime and Fire Log

The Penn College Police maintain a daily Crime and Fire Incident Report Log containing a listing of reported criminal incidents, the time and location the incidents occurred, and the disposition of criminal charges filed. The log also contains information about reported fires and fire alarms, the time and their location. The log is available for review, upon request, in the Police Department during normal business hours. The log is also available to students and employees on the College Police department site of the myPCT portal. In addition to the daily log, Penn College Police publish a police blotter that provides additional information about crimes, calls for service, and fire incidents to keep the College community informed.

Certain information may be withheld to protect a victim or the integrity of a criminal investigation in progress.

Sexual Assault, Stalking, Domestic Violence, and Dating Violence

A statement regarding Penn College’s policies and procedures related to sexual misconduct, including sexual assault, domestic violence, and dating violence, is included on the College website at www.pct.edu/sexualmisconduct, on the Student Affairs Portal site at mypct.pct.edu/student-affairs, and in the College’s policy and procedure for Sexual Misconduct/Sexual Harassment. Educational programs to promote the awareness of sexual assault, sexual harassment, domestic and dating violence, and other offenses are provided by College Health Services, Office of Student Engagement, and Counseling Services.

Survivors of sexual assault, domestic violence, and dating violence are encouraged to report the offense to the College’s Title IX Office (within Student Affairs), Penn College Counseling Services, to Penn College Police, or to their local police.

Survivors are also encouraged to seek medical attention at once, since most injuries are not readily apparent.

In instances where the survivor and the assailant are acquaintances, the survivor may not realize the incident meets the legal definition of a crime

Defining Sexual Assault/Rape, Domestic Violence, Dating Violence, and Stalking

Sexual Assault: Sexual assault occurs when a person engages in sexual intercourse, deviate sexual intercourse, or forcible fondling with another person without the other persons consent.

Rape: The penetration, however slight, of the vagina or anus with any body part or object, or oral penetration by a sex organ of another person, without the consent of the victim. Rape also occurs when a person engages in sexual intercourse with a person by forcible compulsion or the threat of forcible compulsion that would prevent resistance by the person, or when a person is unconscious, or where the person knows that the victim is unaware the act is occurring.

Domestic Violence: Includes felony or misdemeanor crimes of violence committed by a current or former spouse or intimate partner of the victim, by a person with whom the victim shares a child in common, by a person cohabitating or has cohabitated with the victim as a spouse or intimate partner, by a person similarly situated to a spouse of the victim under the domestic or family violence laws of the jurisdiction, or by any other person against an adult or youth victim who is protected from that person’s acts under the domestic or family violence laws of the jurisdiction.

Dating Violence: Violence committed by a person who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with the victim and where the existence of such a relationship will be determined based on the following factors:

- The length of the relationship
- The type of relationship
- The frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship

Dating violence includes threats of, or use of, physical, sexual, verbal, emotional, economic, or psychological action to influence or control the victim.

Stalking: Engaging in a course of conduct directed at a specific person that would cause a reasonable person to fear for his or her safety or the safety of others or suffer substantial emotional stress.

What to Do If You Have Been a Survivor of Sexual Assault, Domestic or Dating Violence, or Stalking

FIRST STEPS AND IMMEDIATE ASSISTANCE

If you or a friend experienced sexual violence due to sexual assault, domestic or dating violence, or stalking recently, the situation should be considered an emergency, and there are some basic steps you or the survivor should take.

1. Go to a safe place. Preserve all physical evidence of the assault, even if you are unsure whether you want to report the crime.

Do not shower, bathe, douche, eat, drink, smoke, wash your hands, or brush your teeth until after you have had a medical examination. Remember to take a change of clothes to the hospital, as they will collect the ones you’re wearing as evidence. If you do change, save all clothing that you were wearing at the time of the assault and bring them and any other potential evidence to the medical exam. Place each item of clothing in a separate paper bag. Do not use plastic bags. Do not clean, straighten up, disturb, or remove anything from the area where the assault occurred. A forensic examination is one way to preserve evidence, but it is not the only way. You can easily take some important steps to preserve evidence by saving all text messages, emails, social media postings (taking screenshots can be helpful), or anything else that might relate to the assault or that might be helpful later in reconstructing a timeline of events. Write down the names of people who might have seen you immediately before or after, as it’s easy to forget names or locations. Even if you do not want to participate in the investigative process now, you might later change your mind, so it’s helpful to preserve as much information as possible.

2. Get medical care as soon as possible.

It is vital that sexual assault survivors seek emergency medical care at a local hospital as soon as possible. A person who has been sexually assaulted may not realize that they have sustained serious injuries (including closed head injury). In addition, hospital staff are trained to collect, preserve, and document physical evidence of the assault. Physical evidence is best collected as soon as possible; however, some evidence may still be collected after 72 hours. Emergency department staff can also provide counseling and treatment related to sexually transmitted infections (including HIV) and pregnancy which may have resulted from the sexual assault.

3. Refer survivors to Wise Options and/or Penn College Counseling Services.

Wise Options is dedicated to providing individualized care for survivors of sexual assault, domestic violence, and other violent crimes. They provide a 24-hour hotline for survivors of sexual assault, and one-on-one counseling services free of charge for survivors, former survivors, families, and friends. Advocates provide information and support throughout the process of coping with sexual assault, and are trained to assist survivors at local hospitals, police departments, and courts. Once the connection to Wise Options has been made, it can serve as a continuing source of follow-up support 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Penn College Counseling Services provides free, confidential counseling on campus

4. Help survivors understand their options.

Sexual assault, domestic or dating violence, or stalking is an experience that can leave survivors feeling powerless; do what you can to help them regain control of their own lives. Help survivors reach out to Wise Options, on-campus resources such as Counseling Services, and make sure that they have all the information they need to make informed choices; then support their decisions. Reporting an incident to the Penn College Police or local authorities does not mean that you must press charges. Survivors have a choice whether or not to file a formal complaint through the College’s investigation process.

5. Encourage survivors to seek ongoing support.

Recognize that healing from sexual violence takes time. Talking about sexual violence or its effects will help the survivor through the recovery and healing process. Supportive family, friends, Wise Options advocates, and on-campus resources can make a real difference for survivors of sexual violence. On the other hand, unsupportive or survivor-blaming comments from family or friends can do tremendous harm to the survivor.

Prevention

RISK REDUCTION TIPS

- Risk reduction tips can often take a survivor-blaming tone, even unintentionally. With no intention to survivor-blame, and with recognition that only those who commit sexual violence are responsible for those actions, these suggestions may nevertheless help you to reduce your risk experiencing a non-consensual sexual act:
1. If you have limits, make them known as early as possible.
 2. Tell a sexual aggressor “NO” clearly and firmly.
 3. Try to remove yourself from the physical presence of a sexual aggressor.
 4. Find someone nearby and ask for help.
 5. Take affirmative responsibility for your alcohol intake/drug use and acknowledge that alcohol/drugs lower your sexual inhibitions and may make you vulnerable to someone who views a drunk or high person as a sexual opportunity.
 6. Take care of your friends and ask that they take care of you. A real friend will challenge you if you are about to make a mistake. Respect them when they do.

If you find yourself in the position of being the initiator of sexual behavior, you owe sexual respect to your potential partner. These suggestions may help you to reduce your risk for being accused of sexual misconduct:

1. Clearly communicate your intentions to your sexual partner and give them a chance to clearly relate their intentions to you.
2. Understand and respect personal boundaries.
3. DON’T MAKE ASSUMPTIONS about consent; about someone’s sexual availability; about whether they are attracted to you; about how far you can go; or about whether they are physically and/or mentally able to consent. If there are any questions or ambiguities then you DO NOT have consent.
4. Mixed messages from your partner are a clear indication that you should stop, defuse any sexual tension, and communicate better. You may be misreading them. They may not have figured out how far they want to go with you yet. You must respect the timeline for sexual behaviors with which they are comfortable.
5. Don’t take advantage of someone’s drunkenness or drugged state, even if they did it to themselves.
6. Realize that your potential partner could be intimidated by you, or fearful. You may have a power advantage simply because of your gender or size. Don’t abuse that power.
7. Understand that consent to some form of sexual behavior does not automatically imply consent to any other forms of sexual behavior.
8. Silence and passivity cannot be interpreted as an indication of consent. Read your potential partner carefully, paying attention to verbal and non-verbal communication and body language.

SIGNS OF AN ABUSIVE RELATIONSHIP

- Exerting strict control (financial, social, and/or appearance)
- Needing constant contact including excessive texts and calls
- Insulting a partner in front of other people
- Extreme jealousy
- Showing fear around a partner
- Isolation from family and friends
- Frequent canceling of plans at the last minute
- Unexplained injuries or explanations that don’t quite add up

BE AN ACTIVE BYSTANDER

- “I’m surprised to see you act that way. You’re better than that.”
- “I care about you, but I won’t tolerate you being abusive.”
- “This makes me really uncomfortable. What you’re doing is not right.”
- “Loving someone doesn’t mean abusing them.”
- “Good partners don’t say or do those kinds of things.”

Reporting Options

Remember that you have a right to report the incident officially. The College encourages students and employees to report these crimes, but the decision is up to the person who has been sexually assaulted.

Reporting to Penn College Police (570.321.5555) or local law enforcement (911) can begin a criminal investigation. However, making a report doesn’t mean that you must press charges. If legal action is requested, persons accused of rape and other forcible and non-forcible sex offenses may be arrested, and charges will be filed with the Magisterial District Judge.

Reporting to the Title IX Coordinator or Deputy Coordinator will begin an investigation into whether the accused student or employee violated the College’s Sexual Misconduct/Sexual Harassment policy. They investigate complaints of sexual assault, as well as other forms of sexual misconduct, involving students, staff, and/or faculty.

The College’s Reporting Responsibilities

There are three federal laws that establish responsibilities for employees of colleges to report certain types of crimes and incidents, especially sexual misconduct: the Clery Act, Title VII, and Title IX. Additionally, state law creates a reporting duty regarding the abuse of minors. Each of these areas of federal law has a different purpose, but generally the laws are intended to protect members of the campus community, visitors, and guests from criminal and discriminatory behavior. The responsibilities established by these laws gives rise to the term “mandatory reporter.”

While Title IX does not impose requirements of “mandatory reporters”, Penn College has classified key staff who must provide notice if they have any knowledge that a member of the College community is experiencing sexual misconduct/sexual harassment.

Certain campus officials, “Campus Security Authorities or CSAs,” have a duty to report sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking for federal statistical reporting purposes. Reporting to a CSA will result in anonymous data collection that will be included in the publication of the Annual Security Report, if the incident meets the geographic and other criteria established by the government under the federal Clery Act. All personally identifiable information is kept confidential, but statistical information must be passed along to the Penn College Police regarding the type of incident and its general location (on or off campus, or in the surrounding area; no addresses are given). This reporting protects the identity of the survivor and may be done anonymously. This extra step is not needed if an incident has been reported to Penn College Police or the Title IX Coordinator or Deputy Coordinator.

RESPONSIBILITIES/WHAT THEY MUST DO

When reporting misconduct covered under Title IX (e.g., sexual harassment, sex or gender discrimination, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, stalking, sexual orientation discrimination, gender identity discrimination, etc.), reporters must provide full details of the incident if known, including names and personally identifying information. If a survivor wishes for no action to be taken, the Title IX Coordinator must evaluate that request. The College is always guided by the goal of empowering the survivor and allowing the survivor to retain as much control over the process as possible. Typically, the College is compelled to act despite a survivor’s wishes when an incident evidences use of weapons, violence, threat, pattern, or predation. Otherwise, a request for confidentiality or no action may be honored, with remedies offered to the survivor as appropriate.

Employees should not promise confidentiality unless their professional role is confidential, and they have received the report in that confidential capacity. If approached, it is appropriate to counsel, “I may be obligated to share what you tell me with administrative officials. If you would like, I can connect you with campus resources who can maintain the confidentiality or privacy of what you share with them.” Where an incident involves off-campus conduct involving a member or members of the campus community, the reporting expectations still apply.

ABOUT CONFIDENTIALITY

The College must balance the reporting party’s desire to maintain their confidentiality against the responsibility under Title IX to investigate all complaints of sexual violence, as well as their Clery Act reporting obligations. There is a strong preference for honoring a reporting party’s request for confidentiality but reinforces the College’s obligation to investigate the complaint nonetheless. The College must make a judgment call as to whether honoring the request for confidentiality puts the College community or the reporting party at risk, but the fact remains that honoring the reporting party’s request will, in most cases, result in a less-than-thorough investigation of that particular complaint, and the reporting party must be so advised.

Privacy concerns are often at the forefront when someone has experienced sexual misconduct. It is useful to know the degree of confidentiality that individuals can expect from each of the College resources. College officials are trained in the importance of confidentiality and the protocols for maintaining that confidentiality.

CONFIDENTIAL RESOURCES

Counselors and health services providers are considered exempt from mandatory reporting, unless a reporting party asks them to report or a duty to report exists under state law based on an imminently harmful situation. Confidential employees will submit timely anonymous statistical information for Clery Act purposes unless the confidential employee determines, on a case-by-case basis, that reporting would not be in the best interest of their client/patient.

REPORTING ANONYMOUSLY

Anonymous reports can be made by survivors and/or third parties using the Silent Witness reporting form at www.pct.edu/silentwitness. Note that these anonymous reports may prompt a need for the College to investigate.

Supportive Measures

SUPPORTIVE MEASURES AVAILABLE

Penn College will offer and implement appropriate and reasonable supportive measures to the parties upon notice of alleged sexual misconduct/sexual harassment. Supportive measures are non-disciplinary, non-punitive individualized services offered as appropriate, as reasonably available, and without fee or charge to the parties to restore or preserve access to the College’s education program or activity, including measures designed to protect the safety of all parties or the College’s educational environment, and/or deter sexual misconduct/sexual harassment.

- Supportive Measures include, but are not limited to, one or more of the following:
- Referral to counseling, medical, and/or other healthcare services.
 - Referral to the Employee Assistance Program.
 - Referral to community-based service providers.
 - Education to the institutional community or community subgroup(s).
 - Altering campus housing assignment(s).
 - Altering work arrangements for employees or student-employees.
 - Safety planning.
 - Providing campus safety escorts.
 - Providing transportation accommodations.
 - Implementing contact limitations (no contact orders) between the parties.
 - Academic support, extensions of deadlines, or other course/program-related adjustments.
 - Persona Non Grata (PNG) orders.
 - Timely warnings.
 - Class schedule modifications, withdrawals, or leaves of absence.
 - Increased security and monitoring of certain areas of the campus.
 - Any other actions deemed appropriate by the Title IX Coordinator

Penn College can act to remove a student responding party entirely or partially from its education program or activities on an emergency basis when an individualized safety and risk analysis has determined that an immediate threat to the physical health or safety of any student or other individual justifies removal. This risk assessment is performed by the College Police in conjunction with the Title IX Coordinator using its standard objective violence risk assessment procedures.

This also includes the right not to be pressured to report, as well.
 - The right to have allegations of violations of this Policy responded to promptly and with sensitivity by College Police and/or other College officials.

 3. Changing an employee’s work environment (e.g., reporting structure, office/workspace relocation)

- The right to be informed in writing of when a decision by the College is considered final and any changes to the sanction(s) that occur before the decision is finalized.
- The right to be informed of the opportunity to appeal the finding(s) and sanction(s) of the resolution process, and the procedures for doing so in accordance with the standards for appeal established by the College.

Procedures

INITIAL REVIEW

When a report is made to the Title IX Coordinator or Deputy Coordinator, they will meet with the reporting party. If the reporting party does not wish for their name to be shared, does not wish for an investigation to take place, or does not want a formal resolution to be pursued, the reporting party may make such a request to the Title IX Coordinator or Deputy Coordinator, who will evaluate that request in light of the duty to ensure the safety of the campus and comply with federal law.

In cases indicating pattern, predation, threat, weapons, and/or violence, the College will likely be unable to honor a request for confidentiality. In cases where the reporting party requests confidentiality and the circumstances allow the College to honor that request, the College will offer supportive measures to the reporting party, but will not otherwise pursue a formal action. A reporting party has the right, and can expect, to have reports taken seriously by the College when formally reported, and to have those incidents investigated and properly resolved through these procedures.

Formal reporting still affords privacy, and only a small group of officials who need to know will be told, which could Include Student Affairs, Penn College Police, and the Office of People & Culture. Information will be shared as necessary with investigators, witnesses, and both parties. The circle of people with this knowledge will be kept as tight as possible to preserve both party’s rights and privacy.

INVESTIGATION

In cases involving allegations of Sexual Misconduct/Sexual Harassment, the College will use an investigative model. This model allows much of the investigation to be completed prior a hearing. Trained staff investigators will interview the reporting party, responding party, and any witnesses, and allow for one or more responses from each. Investigators will prepare a summary report of all relevant information gathered.

HEARING PROCEDURE

If the individual reporting would like to proceed with a formal resolution, it will be referred to the Sexual Misconduct Hearing Panel. There are also informal options for resolution which could include supportive measures, alternate resolution mechanisms (i.e. mediation, restorative practices, etc.), or if the respondent accepts responsibility.

STANDARD OF EVIDENCE

Penn College uses “preponderance of the evidence” as its standard, which asks decision-makers to consider whether it is more likely than not that a violation occurred

SANCTION STATEMENT

- Not all forms of sexual misconduct are equally serious offenses, and the College reserves the right to impose different sanctions, ranging from verbal warning to expulsion, depending on the severity of the offense. The College will consider the concerns and rights of both the reporting party and the responding party of sexual misconduct.
- Any student found responsible for violating the policy on Non-Consensual or Forced Sexual Contact (where no intercourse has occurred) will likely receive a sanction ranging from probation to expulsion, depending on the severity of the incident, and considering any previous campus conduct code violations.
 - Any student found responsible for violating the policy on Non-Consensual or Forced Sexual Intercourse will likely receive a sanction of suspension or expulsion.
 - Any student found responsible for violating the policy on Sexual Exploitation or Sexual Harassment (and related violations) will likely receive a sanction ranging from warning to expulsion, depending on the severity of the incident, and considering any previous campus conduct code violations.
 - Any student found responsible for violating policies on Dating Violence, Domestic Violence, or Stalking will likely receive a sanction from probation to expulsion.

FINAL OUTCOME

The responding party and reporting party will receive decision letters in writing via email

APPEALS

All parties in a Sexual Misconduct Hearing have the opportunity to appeal within a specific time limit. Students found responsible may appeal without concern that they will receive a harsher finding or sanction. All parties may appeal the decision and the sanction. See Sexual Misconduct/Sexual Harassment procedures on the Penn College portal for further details.

RETALIATION

The College will not tolerate retaliation in any form against a faculty, staff, or student who files an allegation, serves as a witness, or participates in an investigation of sexual misconduct/sexual harassment. College policy and state and federal law prohibit retaliation against an individual for reporting discrimination, sexual violence, or harassment, or for participating in an investigation. Retaliation is a serious violation that can subject the offender to sanctions independent of the merits of the allegation. Allegations of or questions about retaliation should be directed to the Office of People & Culture or the Title IX Coordinator.

Sex Offender Registration and Related Information

The “Campus Sex Crimes Prevention Act” of 2000 provides for the tracking of convicted sex offenders enrolled at, or employed by, institutions of higher education. The act requires sex offenders, already required to register in a state, to provide notice of each institution of higher education in that state at which he/ she is employed, carries on a vocation, or is a student. This registration is to be made available to law enforcement agencies with jurisdiction where the institutions of higher education are located. Institutions of higher education are required to issue a statement advising the campus community where state law enforcement agency information concerning registered sex offenders may be obtained.

The Act amends The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA) to clarify that FERPA does not prohibit an educational institution from disclosing information provided to the institution concerning registered sex offenders.

Persons seeking to obtain sex offender registration information may contact:

- Penn College Police Department at 570.321.5555
- Williamsport Bureau of Police at 570.433.3166
- Pennsylvania State Police at 570.368.5700
- Pennsylvania State Police Megan’s Law at www.pameganslaw.state.pa.us

Unlawful use of the information for purposes of intimidating or harassing another is prohibited and willful violation shall be punishable as a Class 1 misdemeanor.

Drugs & Alcohol

Penn College complies with the Drug Free Schools and Communities Act amendments of 1989. The Student Rights & Responsibilities website is available to every full- and part-time student at www.pct.edu/studentpolicy. The site includes standards of conduct, legal sanctions, health risks, counseling, treatment and rehabilitation programs available, and possible disciplinary sanctions. A printed copy of the site contents is available upon request.

Laws regarding the possession, sale, consumption, or furnishing of alcohol are controlled by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board (PLCB). However, the enforcement of alcohol laws on or around campus is the primary responsibility of the Penn College Police Department. The Penn College campus has been designated “Drug Free” and only under certain circumstances is the consumption of alcohol permitted. The possession, sale, manufacture, or distribution of any controlled substance is illegal under both state and federal laws. Such laws are strictly enforced by the Penn College Police Department.

Possession, transportation, consumption, or sale of alcoholic beverages by persons under the age of 21 is prohibited. Penn College has a policy regarding the use of alcohol at College functions by those over 21 years old. Violators are subject to College disciplinary action, criminal prosecution, fine, and imprisonment.

Two Federal laws, the Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988 and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989, mandate that the College notify all students and employees of its policies, and of the sanctions which will be applied for violations of these policies, relating to the possession, use, and/or distribution of illicit (illegal) drugs and alcohol. This information has been developed to meet our obligations to students and employees.

Our commitment to you is to take responsible action to prevent possession, use, and/or distribution of illicit drugs and alcohol and, when practicable, to help you to deal successfully with drug and/ or alcohol problems if you have or develop such a problem. Should these efforts to prevent or remediate a problem fail, punitive actions may be initiated.

Standards of Conduct and Sanctions

Students: College policies and procedures clearly prohibit the unlawful possession, use, and/or distribution of illicit drugs and consumption of alcoholic beverages on the College campus. Additional information about these restrictions and disciplinary procedures is available in the College library and on the Student Rights and Responsibilities website at www.pct.edu/studentpolicy.

Employees: The unlawful manufacture, distribution, dispensing, possession, or use of illicit drugs and/or alcohol is prohibited on College premises. The College will construe violation of this prohibition to be an act of employee misconduct within the meaning of College Policy III 3.04.01 and Article XVIII of the Bargaining Unit Agreement. In the event of a violation, corrective disciplinary actions shall be taken pursuant to College policies, as applicable.

A description of drug and/or alcohol counseling, treatment, rehabilitation, and/or re-entry programs is provided on page 16.

SPECIAL STIPULATIONS APPLICABLE TO FEDERAL GRANTS

As a condition of employment under a federal grant, the employee will:

- abide by the established standards of conduct and sanctions;
- notify the employer of any criminal drug statute conviction for a violation occurring in the workplace not later than five days after such conviction.

NOTICE TO STUDENTS AND EMPLOYEES

The College will make every reasonable effort to assist you in meeting institutional standards of conduct and policies in relation to the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs and alcohol. However, the College is prepared to impose disciplinary sanctions for violations of these standards and policies consistent with local, state, and federal law, up to and including expulsion or termination of employment and referral for prosecution.

Hazing prevention and awareness programs are incorporated into all student leadership trainings, Welcome Week programming, and new student online modules. Employees are trained to identify and prevent hazing, are informed of related policies, and understand their responsibilities for reporting incidents.

Penn College encourages all community members who witness, experience, or are aware of hazing to report it to College Police, Student Affairs, People & Culture, or via the Silent Witness form.

In compliance with the Timothy J. Piazza Anti-Hazing Law, the College maintains a public report of all hazing violations, updated biennially on January 1 and July 1, and posted on the Penn College Police website.

Alcohol Effects

Alcohol consumption causes a number of marked changes in behavior. Even a small amount significantly impairs the judgment and coordination required to operate machinery or drive a car safely, increasing the likelihood that the driver/operator will be involved in an accident. Low to moderate consumption of alcohol also increases the incidence of a variety of aggressive acts, including physical abuse. Moderate to high consumption of alcohol causes marked impairments in higher mental functions, severely altering a person’s ability to learn and remember information. Very high consumption causes respiratory distress and death. If combined with other depressants of the central nervous system, much less consumption of alcohol will produce the effects just described.

Repeated use of alcohol can lead to dependence. Sudden cessation of alcohol intake is likely to produce withdrawal symptoms, including severe anxiety, tremors, hallucinations, and convulsions. Alcohol withdrawal can be life-threatening. Long-term consumption of large quantities of alcohol, particularly when combined with poor nutrition, can also lead to permanent damage to vital organs such as the brain and the liver.

Mothers who drink alcohol during pregnancy may give birth to infants with fetal alcohol syndrome. These infants have irreversible physical abnormalities and mental retardation. In addition, research indicates that children of alcoholic parents are at greater risk than other youngsters of becoming alcoholics.

On-campus Housing Fire Safety

Fire Statistics

Penn College Police and Residence Life reported one fire for 2020 and one fire in 2021, both in student housing facilities and no fires in 2022.

Life Safety Systems

Penn College provides on-campus housing at three apartment complexes. These complexes are made up of twenty-seven separate residence halls. Each facility is equipped with a fire detection system including smoke and heat detectors. Most of the facilities are equipped with pull stations and fully suppressed with fire sprinklers. All the fire safety systems report to Penn College Police and a centralized alarm monitoring station. Penn College is committed to fire safety in all of its facilities. Administrators and staff from Residence Life, General Services, and College Police continuously access and improve fire safety systems when needed. See chart on page 21.

Mandatory Supervised Fire Drills

Residence Life and Penn College Police jointly conduct and supervise two annual fire drills. The fire evacuation drills are conducted at each residence hall by activating the building fire alarm system. Resident assistants and other College employees verify that everyone has evacuated the building and has assembled in a common location.

Fire Safety Policies, Regulations, and Guidelines

Residence Life is responsible for establishing and publishing the policies, regulations, and guidelines for fire safety. The rules are intended to prevent injury and property damage. Rooms are inspected periodically for fire safety violations and any corrective measures are taken immediately. Because of the seriousness of fire hazard in housing facilities, Penn College takes disciplinary action for all fire safety violations. Policies, regulations, and guidelines are available at www.pct.edu/housingpolicies.

Training

Penn College conducts annual training for all residence assistants and apartment coordinators with the assistance of the Williamsport Bureau of Fire and Penn College Police. Training covers:

- Fire extinguisher use
- Evacuation and emergency preparedness
- Fire inspection for prohibited items

Freshman orientation is conducted every Welcome Weekend during the fall and spring semesters. Training covers:

- Evacuation procedures
- Kitchen fire safety
- Arson
- Prohibited fire hazard items

Access to the fire safety video, rules, guidelines, and evacuation procedures can be found on the Residence Life myPCT Portal site and at www.pct.edu/housingpolicies.
