Alumni

There's so much to talk about!

It is an exciting time at Penn College and students are eager to speak with you! When you see Penn College on your caller ID, please take the call as a student is waiting to share the latest campus happenings and hear your words of wisdom as they work to earn degrees that work! In the meantime, meet the entire student development team and learn more about the Penn College Phonathon online.

Epic Smokehouse Alumni Event

We had a great time at our first regional event in Arlington, VA. If you would be interested in attending a regional event in your area, please email the Alumni Relations Office with the city you live in and any ideas that you might have for activities or venues near you.

Super Bowl Commercial Sports Penn College Connection

Two former students at Pennsylvania College of Technology manufactured a key element of a memorable prop featured in a prominent Super Bowl commercial. Steven D. Belin and Wayne B. Mitz, founders and owners of BelMit Development in York Springs, machined the billet aluminum gas tank shells on the motorcycle driven by Hollywood superstar Keanu Reeves in a commercial for Squarespace, a website developer. During the spot, Reeves stands on the motorcycle while traveling through a desert to visually reinforce the Squarespace theme, "Make it happen."

Construction Scholars Learning From the Pros

The semester's first official industry presentation for Built Environment Scholars, featuring local architect Anthony H. Visco Jr. (a 1967 graduate of Williamsport Area Community College and a member of Penn College's Architectural Technology Advisory Board), was held recently in the School of Construction & Design Technologies.

Giving to Penn College

The Dr. Welch Workshop: A Makerspace at Penn College

A makerspace under development in Pennsylvania College of Technology's Carl Building Technologies Center will provide the environment – and essential tools – for students, faculty and staff to collaborate on innovative projects in a dynamic learning setting.

To date, nearly $190,000 has been raised to support this exciting project. Gifts to The Dr. Welch Workshop allow us to create this informal, project-driven, and self-directed learning space for campus community to share their ideas, explore their concepts and support invention in a highly collaborative and well-equipped space.
